

The Special Admissions Examination for Senior High School in the School Year of 104 Completed Successfully

(Texts were provided by Liao Min-hui from the Senior High School and Vocational High School Education Group)

The Special Admissions Examination for the school year of 104 took place on June 14th this year. A total of 3,713 signed up for the exam, while 203 of them were absent, resulting in an examination attendance rate of 94.53%. The acceptance rate is expected to increase to 25.93%. Each school's (district) number of actual examinees was compiled below as the attachment shows. Schools' (districts) numbers of actual examinees and examination attendance rates for each subject were generally good. No violations occurred in any of these examination rooms. The overall students responded well to the exam.

After the examination ends, all schools (districts) should declare test items and answers for every subject. Tainan District has announced them on the K-12 Education resource website of Bureau of Education, Tainan City Government, as well as on the website of Tainan First High School. For the other two districts and three schools, please go to each school's website for file download. Detailed information is as follows:
